Oxford-Wolfson-Marriott-Graduate Scholarships 2023-24

Additional Information

The Oxford Wolfson Marriott Scholarships have been made possible by a donation to Wolfson College from the late Dr Francis Marriott, who was a University Lecturer and Fellow of Wolfson from 1970 until his death in 2012. Dr Marriott conducted research in the field of biomathematics, and taught statistics. The scholarships are part-funded by the Oxford Graduate Scholarship Matched Fund.

Value of award

Course Fees (at the Home/ROI rate) and a grant for living costs (up to the UKRI Minimum Doctoral Stipend, which was £17,668 in 2022-2023). A student on a part-time course will receive a study support grant instead. Awards are made for the full duration of fee liability for the agreed course (previous Oxford students are advised to check the University’s Fees and Funding pages for exceptions due to prior study). The awards will be made in partnership with a number of departments, faculties and centres for doctoral training that may, exceptionally, enhance an award to bring it up to the Overseas Course Fee rate.

Residence criteria

Unless otherwise stated, scholarships are open to applicants who are ordinarily resident in the UK or Republic of Ireland.

How to apply

There is no separate application process. Applicants, whether internal or external, should apply to the University of Oxford under the standard procedures for graduate degrees for 2023-24. Applications must be made by the January deadline for your chosen course and all eligible applications will be considered. If there are two or more candidates of equal academic merit, priority will be given to the candidate who has listed Wolfson as their first-choice college on the University application form. The successful scholar will become a member of Wolfson College for the duration of their studies.
