

Oxford-Ullendorff Graduate Scholarship in Semitic Philology

The Oxford-Wolfson-Ullendorff Graduate Scholarship in Semitic Philology has been generously funded by the late Mrs Dina Ullendorff in memory of her late husband, Professor Edward Ullendorff. Professor Ullendorff was a renowned authority on Semitic languages and held academic posts at the universities of St Andrews and Manchester and at the School of Oriental and African Studies (SOAS). He held the Chair of Semitic Languages at SOAS and was appointed Emeritus Professor of Semitic Languages and Ethiopian Studies on his retirement in 1982. Professor Ullendorff was a Fellow of the British Academy and the Accademia Lincei. He was an Honorary Fellow of the Oxford Centre for Hebrew and Jewish Studies and a long-term member of Wolfson College.

Degree type and subject

The Oxford-Ullendorff Graduate Scholarship in Semitic Philology is open to applicants who are applying for the MSt in Classical Hebrew Studies.

Value of award

Course fees (at Home rate - those ordinarily resident in the UK or ROI) and a grant for living costs for full-time students at the UK Research Council rate (currently £15,285) for the relevant period of fee liability. Students on part-time courses will receive a proportional study support grant instead.

Residence criteria

The Scholarship is open to applicants who are ordinarily resident in the UK or ROI.

Partnership

The award is offered in partnership with the Oxford Graduate Scholarship Matched Funding scheme.

How to apply

There is no separate application process. All applicants should apply to the University of Oxford under the standard procedures for graduate degrees for 2021-22. Applications should be made by the January deadline for your eligible course. If there are two or more candidates of equal academic merit, priority will be given to the candidate who has listed Wolfson as their first choice college on their University application form. The Scholar will become a member of Wolfson College.
